

LINGUIST 101 – Spring 2015: S' and Complementizers

The S' rule lets us draw trees with complementizers. Complementizers let us put smaller sentences (sometimes called embedded clauses) inside of bigger sentences. (These rules are based off of the rules from the syntax handout from 2 March. The rules on the exam may be different, but this should give you an idea of how things work.)

